The South Africa

On March 31, 2019, South Africa's current account surplus was $3.6 billion, down from $4.2 billion in the same period of the previous year. The deficit on the current account was $1.2 billion, compared with a surplus of $1.8 billion in the same period of the previous year.

The South African Reserve Bank

The South African Reserve Bank (SARB) has raised its key interest rate by 0.25 percentage points to 7.25%.

The SARB is concerned about the high level of inflation, which is expected to remain above the target level of 3% for the rest of the year.

The Reserve Bank is also concerned about the high level of debt, which is expected to remain high for the foreseeable future.

The SARB is committed to maintaining price stability and economic growth, and will continue to monitor the economy closely.
